Impact

Many struggling students report not having a single adult they trust at school who they can go to for support. Dreamline mentors work to build supportive developmental relationships with their students. Giving students someone to go to while improving student's sense of belonging and self-belief in the process.

83% of students consider their mentor a trusted adult.

77% of mentors reported an increase in sense of belonging amongst their cohort.

96% of mentors reported an increase in growth mindset amongst their cohort.

Food and Nutrition

Sanneh’s Food and Nutrition program grew to meet the community's needs during the COVID-19 pandemic. What started as an on-site cafeteria providing warm, healthy meals to youth and families at our Conway Community Center has rapidly grown into a full-fledged nutritional services program. Since 2021, our nutritional services program has operated out of a 39,000 sq. ft. warehouse space at Saint Joseph’s Hospital where storing, sorting, and packaging of food takes place. Partnerships with other organizations including Second Harvest Heartland, Hunger Solutions Minnesota, and East Side Table have allowed us to grow our distribution network, which now includes 46 community-based sites across the Twin Cities.

Free Community Camps
Sanneh's free community sports camps follow a dual track model designed to multiply program impact by creating two layers of programming within one program. Sanneh's camps both improve access to sports camps in communities without them while also providing work experience and professional development training for young workers from marginalized communities. This summer, 2198 participants attended 46 sports camps at 31 locations across the Twin Cities metro.

Camp Locations

Conway Community Center
The Conway Community Center aims to improve the lives of nearby East Side residents by providing programming and access that directly addresses the disparities in social determinants of health this community faces. The community center increases residents access to out-of-school-time programming (OST), free community sports camps, food distribution, and free state-of-the-art sports facilities.
